

Dear Parent/Carer,

As you know, the NSPCC visited school last term and delivered their Speak out. Stay safe. assembly to share information with your child about how they can keep themselves safe from harm and get help if they have any worries. It was a very worthwhile and empowering session for both pupils and teachers. They spoke to the children and staff about the valuable work they do across the country, and talked about how important it is for everyone in our school community to join them in their 'fight for every childhood'.

As a charity, they can only provide these vital resources thanks to the financial support and generosity of their supporters.

That's why we're raising money to help the NSPCC's work in schools

I am delighted to say that our school has chosen to support the valuable work of the NSPCC this term by taking part in a fundraising event, and I would really value your support and encouragement.

How your children can have fun – and make a massive difference

Following a launch assembly on Monday, all the children will be doing Buddy's Big Workout in school – which will not only be exciting for our pupils but will also mean they have an opportunity to raise money for the NSPCC's vital work and help keep even more children safe. Participation in gaining sponsorship is purely voluntary but if you would like to support the NSPCC's work, it would be fantastic if you could give your child permission to take part by signing the sponsor form and return the sponsored event form and money raised to school by Tuesday 1st October. If you have more than one child in school simply put all your children's names at the top of one form.

To say thank you, every child who takes part in the activity will receive a special Buddy badge, but more than that, they can also be proud that every penny raised will make a significant difference for children. By supporting the NSPCC we can work together to end child abuse.

Talking PANTS with your children

The NSPCC's work in schools helps encourage conversations about staying safe and they have a number of child-friendly materials to help you carry on having conversations with your child. These include 'Talk PANTS', a simple way for parents to help keep children safe from sexual abuse – without using scary words or even mentioning sex.

The guide uses the rules of PANTS to teach children that their body belongs to them and them alone. You can find out more and download the free resources at nspcc.org.uk/pants

The NSPCC also publishes the useful guide for parents, 'Your Child's Online World'. We have copies available from the stand outside the school office, if you would like one. If you'd like to know more about the NSPCC's work, or take a look at the wide range of information and advice which is available for parents and carers, please visit their website nspcc.org.uk/parents.

Yours sincerely
